

Friday Night Catantrum

FNC is a mobile board game organization app that helps you plan your next game night. FNC categorizes all the games you own to help decide based on the number of players, the time you want to devote, the level of intensity and the style of play. It can also give the user a way to add custom tags like “good for the bar” or “family friendly”.

Are you looking to play a quick, light-hearted cooperative game with a friend? Let's play Forbidden Island! Do 5 people want an intense, competitive card game? FNC suggests Race for the Galaxy!

FNC will also track games you've played recently and lower them on the list of suggestions to keep your games in rotation.

Do you hate searching through 20 pages of rules to find that one weird situation and how it should be handled? Instructions can be loaded on the app in a searchable format, with a quick setup section for what you need to get your game running quickly.

Who's keeping score at the end of the game? We'll do that, too. Just fill out the win conditions section and we'll calculate your points.

The app will connect with the BoardGameGeek api to add game reviews, expansions information and game recommendations.
